Tracey Kurtz joined our team in early 2018. She was born and raised in Ohio and lived throughout the east coast. She graduated high school in the Cincinnati area, where she went on to begin her college career at the University of Cincinnati seeking a degree in business. Tracey moved to the Las Vegas valley in August of 2001 and lives in the Summerlin area. She began attending UNLV in 2010, where she took a Sports Injury Management class, which sparked an interest in the medical profession. She completed her studies in 2014 graduating with a Bachelor of Science in Kinesiological Sciences. Tracey is an avid sports fan following New England teams and, of course, our Golden Knights. She also enjoys the gym, hiking with friends, and an array of outdoor activities.
